

Register to vote yourself a raise.

No one can live on $7.25 an hour.

Someone earning the minimum wage of $7.25 per hour who works 40 hours a week earns only $15,080 a year – not nearly enough to pay for rent, food, and other essentials.

This year we can vote to raise the minimum wage by $1 per hour, which would mean an extra $2,000 per year for full-time workers and give New Jersey families a chance to make ends meet.

But you have to be registered to vote to make a difference.
